MEET THE GIRAFFE FAMILY

Acacia trees release gas into the air when a giraffe eats their leaves. Other acacias close by detect this gas and begin to produce toxins in their leaves, preventing the giraffe from eating them!

What plants does your favourite animal eat?

Do they have any special adaptations like the acacia tree?

The Giraffe Family is a wild herd of rare West African giraffe who live in Niger. Find out how Born Free is working with our friends at the Giraffe Conservation Foundation to protect them here.
